

The Refuge at Knoll Farm Weddings

Soaring views of the Green Mountains and a pristine working farm, gardens and historic barn make our private location ideal for elegant weddings with artistic, real-world flair. Make the weekend even more special with the option of exclusive use of the secluded Refuge, fire pits, hot tub and yurts for your closest friends and family.

“Getting married at Knoll Farm, a refuge that celebrates people’s connection with land (and one another), was really powerful for us. Land embodies both history and possibility - two things that a public commitment ceremony does too. We felt so fortunate to share the overwhelming beauty and bonding power of this place with our friends and family on such a significant day in our lives.” - Shelby Semmes

Our beautiful and historic farm offers several inspiring locations for your wedding ceremony – the intimacy of our old timberframe barn or the wide expanse of Wedding Rock with a 270-degree view of the mountains.

Our farm lends itself to relatively informal weddings of up to 150 people. The grounds are very lovely, with gardens, an outdoor oven, orchards and lawns, all surrounded by some of the grandest views the Mad River Valley has to offer. We are a working farm, so you may have our sheep in the background as you say your vows.

Meals and receptions can be planned for outdoors or indoors, buffet-style with long tables set out on the lawn, or in the two-story event barn where you will also find bathrooms and a dance floor.

The Refuge at Knoll Farm sleeps 26 people and is a nice option to make your wedding even more intimate and special. The Refuge has a bath house, hot tub, futon beds and is in easy walking distance from the farm. The farm itself is less than 5 minutes from the village of Waitsfield by car and conveniently located to all that the Mad River has to offer.

Call us to book your wedding between mid June and late September.
